Key Risks

The value of your investment may go down as well as up and past performance does not predict future returns. Investor capital may be at risk up to a total loss.
The Fund is exposed to the currency markets which may be highly volatile. Large price swings can occur in such markets within very short periods and may result in your investment suffering a loss.
The Fund is exposed to less economically developed economies (known as emerging markets) which involve greater risks than well developed economies. Political unrest and economic downturn may be more likely and will affect the value of your investment.
The value of an investment in shares will depend on a number of factors including, but not limited to, market and economic conditions, sector, geographical region and political events.
The Fund is exposed to market movements in a single country or region which may be adversely affected by political or economic developments, government action or natural events that do not affect a fund investing in broader markets.
The following is applicable if you subscribe for or settle shares in a different currency than the fund or share-class currency: Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies.

Investment Policy

- The objective of the investment policy is to achieve mid to long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in equities from developed and emerging markets.
- The invested assets are selected with the primary aim to construct a global equity strategy by combining a macro outlook using top-down insights with bottom-up fundamental stock selection
- The Investment Manager will make specific sector tilts (overweighting or underweighting specific industry sectors) reflecting its macro outlook, while company selection prioritises strong fundamentals and attractive valuations.
